WEDNESDAY, JULY 26, 1899.

It is surprising to us that some of the Southern editors could use their papers in saying mean things about Fighting Joe Wheeler, a man who has shown by every act of his life that he cares more for his country than he did for wealth or his life.

Secretary of War Russell A. Alger has tendered his resignation as a member of President McKinley's Cabinet, and it has been accepted. Elihu Root, of New York, has been appointed his successor. The resignation of Secretary Alger is believed to have been sought by the President.

The United States government has not yet restored the postoffice at Lake City, S. C., and the good people of that section are being deprived of the mail facilities. This is an outrage, and deserves the condemnation of every citizen of our whole country. If a mob of five or six men were to assassinate the postmaster of Boston or some other Republican stronghold, would the government deprive the people of that city of mail facilities?

From present indications the American exhibit at the Paris exposition will astonish Europe in the matter of machinery, whatever it may do in agriculture and other industrial matters. The showing of American skill in heavy mechanical ironworking will, it is said, be the most complete that America has ever made, either at home or abroad. There will be at least 17 American locomotives on exhibition, and the examples of other structural work, such as bridges, etc., will be equally extensive. The commissioners think that the mechanical department will, in its way, be quite as great a surprise to Europe as was the Spanish war.

Elberton, Ga., is going to have a carnival. The big event takes place from August 21 to 25 inclusive. The railroads have named an exceedingly low rate for the round trip and 20,000 visitors are expected to be in attendance. The program embraces many attractive features and the affair is certain to prove a big success. Among the long list of attractions appears horse racing, bicycle contests, shooting tournaments, fire works display, balloon ascensions, military pageants, brass band tournaments, baseball and tennis games. An old-fashioned Georgia barbecue and a big horsewappers' convention are also down on the program. Distinguished orators from all sections of the country will be present.

Of all classes of people, ministers of the gospel should be more cautious in the use of extravagant expressions than any other, for it is to them the weak and the strong and the blind and the seeing look for moderation as pointers of "the Way." The very immediate declaration of Rev. Henry McDonald, of Atlanta, that "should Bob Ingersoll be arrested for preaching his doctrine on the streets of Atlanta, he would be the first to go on his hands," is not taken seriously by those who know this reverend gentleman, still it shows that the Church is constantly trying to condescend to the world and its contaminations instead of trying to maintain a standard of her own and insisting on the world's recognition of that standard. Let the ministry abandon wild, hysterical ravings and stick closely to the truth and the cause of the Master will be considerably advanced.

Many fathers and mothers do not realize fully, perhaps, the true value of home study for the children. The influence of home training is felt in every school. Take the boy or girl who has the proper training at home, and the teacher has no trouble with him in the school room. There may be exceptions but certainly it is the general rule. If he is taught obedience at home, he will be respectful to the teacher. But the man or woman who controls and disciplines the pupil who is unruly at home, has a very difficult task to perform. Home should teach the propriety of social life, the basal principles of true etiquette, self respect, respect for others, a fixed purpose to brighten life for other people, manners at the table and in the parlor, on the play ground, in the church and in the recreation room. When a child is thoroughly trained at home in the principles above stated, his education is half completed.

How detestable is the slanderer! By the side of him the midnight assassin might almost be permitted to go unwhipped of justice: for this one aims the dagger only to take away human life, while that one hurls his poisonous shafts with the deliberate intent of ruining reputation and killing character. Wholly corrupt, he finds nothing good in others; blinded, he can not see in any life the beautiful flowers of virtue and innocence and loveliness, and therefore insists that these do not bloom. He is never happy except when imputing the motives of others and ascribing sinister purposes to all their efforts. Like the harpies in fabled story, his presence is nauseous, his touch polluting. Often indeed he succeeds in turning some innocent victim's cup of life, otherwise sweet, into a bitter draught; but there remains the comforting assurance that in the end his plans will go awry and his purposes fail of accomplishment. Commend us to the man of magnanimity, though he possess a thousand fanes, rather than the spiteful, as well as detestable, the narrow-minded and mean-spirited man who cannot recognize merit nor appreciate worth even in an enemy.

In the death of Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, fraud loses one of its most able advocates, nihilism its trusted apostle, and blasphemy its inspired silver tongue. He, among all modern infidels, has sown broadcast over the field more of the tares of unbelief and doubt than can be reckoned from the human point of view. He sowed a whirlwind, and he has reaped—Ah! we can not peer beyond this "narrow vale between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities. We strive in vain to look beyond the heights. We cry aloud, and the only answer is the echo of our wailing cry. From the voiceless lips of the unreplying dead there comes no word; but from the depths of doubting hearts, shattered faiths and blasted hopes rises a mournful requiem for the end of the great unknown soul. Let us hope that he may not be meted out the harvest he has sown, for if the blood and sighs of every one from whom he struck the armor of Faith is placed on his now knowing head, he is smitten to-night beneath a raging, ever restless, turbulent sea of blood with the wailing and the weeping and the remorseful sighing of every surging billow. He was a plausible reasoner, yet under analysis a sophist and a perverter, fond of mystification by specious arguments and magical phrases. He was an advocate of purity, domestic happiness, education, temperance and freedom; and the unrelenting foe of canting hypocrisy, for it was through these banes to the church's spirituality that his antagonism was directed to the whole. He was a man of master intellect and swayed his hearers like reeds in the wind. We are told that he died as he wished, suddenly; but we can but think that his taking off was a complete disappointment to him. Had he lingered long before treading the somber shore of the Stygian flood, he intended giving the lie to all his fallacious doctrines a foolish word, so eager drank, and proclaim the truth he now knows too well. The seed he sowed are still germinating. Who, then, can say what the fruitage will be? His doctrine, as pernicious as the loathed intemperance he so strongly denounced, to quote his own words, "Burns up men, consumes women, detests life, curses God and despises heaven. It brings shame, not honor; terror, not safety; despair, not hope; misery, not happiness; and with the malevolence of a fiend it calmly surveys its frightful desolation, and unsatisfied with its havoc, it ruins morals, slays reputation, and wipes out national honors, then curses the world and laughs at its ruin."

Holland's Store.

Crops are needing rain badly. Our farmers have about ceased cultivation and are waiting and hoping for a wet spell.

The health of our community is good now.

We had a walk a new days ago over the farm of Mr. Chas M. Findley. Mr. Findley bought a piece of bottom land on Mountain Creek, thought at the time by many to be almost worthless, as it was too wet even for a pasture. A cow could not walk through it with safety. To-day he has it all dry and between 25 and 30 acres of as fine corn as ever grows in this country, and will make something like 40 or 50 bushels per acre. This shows what can be done in this old country when backed by judgment and pluck. If you think we have strained or prevaricated just do as we did, go and look. Mr. Findley will take pleasure in showing you over his farm.

A very interesting meeting of several days closed at Mountain Creek last Sunday. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Copeland, did the preaching. Much interest was manifested, the preaching faithful and pointed, and while the ingathering was not large, we believe the seed sown will bring forth in due season.

Mrs. Josie Dobbins, of Lenoir, Ga., is staying with her sister, Mrs. Holland. Berry Holland, who has been in Lenoir, Ga., for the past six months, is at home spending some time with his mother's family.

We had a shower of rain last night, and the indications this morning are good for more. We trust it will come.

Corner Creek News.

Hot, dry and dusty. The crops are suffering very much at this writing, and unless they get rain in a few days will doubtless "go up."

The health of our people is very good at present, except several of Mr. J. A. Higby's family, who are very sick.

Miss Annie Martin, a most lovable and beautiful young lady from near Donalds, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Lela Gassaway, this week.

Mr. Furman Milford, one of Antreville's promising young men, was in our midst for a few hours last Saturday.

Our watermelon crop will be very "short" this year unless we get rain soon. We have been feasting on them, though, for the past two weeks, but the second growth will be small.

The McAdams school here began a prosperous session on Monday, 10th inst. About 35 pupils have been enrolled. Miss Lou Gassaway is still holding the reins of this school.

Miss Lois Shirley, a most pretty and fascinating young girl from this vicinity, is visiting relatives at Antreville for a few days. May she have a pleasant stay and a safe return to her home. The Union Meeting of the 1st Saluda District will convene with the Church at Keovee on the fifth Saturday and Sunday of this month. An interesting program has been arranged for this occasion and a large crowd will no doubt be present.

Hugh McIlwain, one of Abbeville's fair boys, has been visiting friends the past few days in our midst. Come again, and stay longer. Tyno.

— Even the blind man is able to find fault.

A-bury Items.

The health of our community is very good.

Mrs. Mary Moore has been right sick, but glad to say she is improving.

Mr. Sam Jackson visited kinkfolk at Lenoir, Ga., last week.

Miss Daisy Moore is visiting her sister, Miss Burris, near Hunter's Spring.

Miss Lillie Stevenson, from Townsville, S. C., is visiting her grandfather's family.

Mrs. Maggie Brock, from Homea Path, S. C., has been visiting Mrs. Maggie Erwin.

Mr. R. Williamson is doing some very good work on the roads in our burg.

Two of Hopewell's dashing sports, Messrs. Jule Duckworth and Ben. Ashley, were in our burg the third Sunday. Ask Ben, how many girls can ride in his top buggy.

Mr. J. L. Stevenson and wife visited relatives at Townsville last week.

Children's Day will be observed at this Church Saturday before the first Sunday, and the protracted meeting begins on the first Saturday night.

News is scarce and your scribe is lazy.

Come up, Mr. Editor, and help to eat melons and chickens.

GRASSHOPPER.

Notes from Sadler's Creek.

The weather is extremely warm in our burg these days.

Our Providence prayer meeting is well attended and Sunday school also.

Farmers will complete their work this week, then all that's needed is rain.

We noticed among the visitors at Providence Sunday afternoon Messrs. E. Yeargin and Ab Brock from Rock Mills, Mr. Sloan Whitaker and sister, Miss Corrie, from Deep Creek, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jones from Lenoir, Ga.

Miss Emma Brooks is visiting Mrs. Whitefield at Tokeena, S. C.

Master Robt. McLees, of Greenwood, S. C., is the guest of Rev. Hugh McLees.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Willford and children and Miss Nora Willford visited relatives at this place Sunday.

Watermelons are ripening.

CHIC, SARGER AND JUDY.

-- The man who does nothing never does anything wrong.

-- When a jury hangs it is an effort to strangle justice.

-- A horse may pull with all his might, but never with his mane.

-- The man who has nothing to say isn't always conscious of it until he has tried to say it.

-- Algeria is the only country in the world where the horses outnumber the human beings.

-- Aunt Dolly Brown, who was more than one hundred years of age, died in Gaffney on the 2nd inst.

-- Some girls seem to grow more beautiful as they grow older. Practice often makes perfect.

-- It's much easier for appearance to keep a man down than it is for a man to keep appearance up.

-- There is a paradox in pride—it makes some men ridiculous, but prevents others from becoming so.

-- It is generally believed in Missouri that a great part of the booty taken by Quantrell and his famous raiders from Lawrence, Kan., in 1863, now lies buried in a great mound 150 feet high in Bates county, Mo. From time to time searching parties have dug holes in the mound in search of the plundered treasure, but none have succeeded in finding anything.
